Rediscover life in the slow lane

What to bring on a skippered charter

Enthusiasm, a sense of humour and the desire to go with the flow are the essential pre-requisites! Remember you are here to relax and get away from the pressure of permanent connectivity. But on a more practical note...

Space is at a premium aboard a yacht so it's vital to pack efficiently, always using a soft bag without wheels, that can easily be stowed. In addition to passport, money and mobile phone (with 12V charger), some vitals that you will need to bring are:

- Non-slip, non-marking, soft-soled shoes (not black soles)
- Good sunglasses (essential)
- Wide-brimmed hat (essential)
- Good sun cream (essential - min SF20; 30 or 50 is better) and after-sun
- Street shoes
- A jumper or fleece
- Waterproof jacket
- Long-sleeved top(s)
- Quick-drying trousers (jeans are not particularly good)
- Shorts
- T-shirts
- Beach towel
- Swimming gear
- Toiletries
- Any medicines you require
- Sailing gloves (if you feel you need them)
- Personal entertainment - MP3 player, books/e-reader. However remember that the power supply is at a premium. Generally it is only possible to charge devices when the engine is running or on the rare occasions we have shore power

Ordinary towels, bedding and life jackets are provided.

What not to bring:

- Hard-shell/rigid suitcases

- Lots of posh clothes – one smart casual outfit (or appropriate accessories) will be more than enough
  - Clothes that restrict your movement
- For the ladies:
- High heels
  - The entire contents of the department store beauty counter – mascara, lippie/lip gloss and moisturiser will be plenty

We also keep a pack of cards and Uno handy as we usually have a game of gin rummy on the go. We also usually take a tube of hand-wash liquid with us. Any contributions to the drinks cabinet will be welcome but under no circumstances necessary!
